

I have discussed my Advance Health Care Directive with and given copies of it to the following people:

My Health Care Agent: _____

My Alternate Health Care Agent(s): _____

Virginia Advance Health Care Directive Registry:

Email: _____

Registry Password: _____

Registration: _____

PIN: _____

Security Question Answer: _____

My physician(s): _____

My local hospitals: _____

My case manager or care coordinator: _____

Friends, family members, and other loved ones: _____

My minister, priest, rabbi, chaplain or other spiritual advisors: _____

My attorney or advocate: _____

Others:

It is very important that you keep track of the people who have received a copy of your advance directive. If you ever wish to revoke it or make changes to it, you need to notify every person who received a copy. You can notify each person verbally or in writing. Providing the notification in a letter and keeping a copy for your records is the best way to protect yourself. You can also give them a copy of any revised advance directive which will automatically revoke the older version.